Georgia Southern's Day at the Capitol

State lawmakers got a formal introduction to Georgia Southern University at the first-ever Georgia Southern Day at the Capitol held on February 6th.

The day included appearances by Freedom, our University bald eagle and our mascot GUS. Eagle Dining Services provided breakfast to legislators and visitors who strolled up to information tables set up by our colleges and departments including the ROTC, nursing, STEM education programs and the Herty Advanced Materials Development Center. Representatives from the University's academic, research, athletics and student organizations had the opportunity to speak with our state representatives about the specific achievements of their areas within Georgia Southern. Georgia Southern was also presented with two Invite Resolutions in both the House of Representatives and Senate and I was provided the opportunity to address both legislative bodies. It was a proud day for the University and everyone who helped make the day a success.

Georgia General Assembly Legislative Session Begins

As many of you may know, the Georgia General Assembly 2014 legislative session began on Monday, January 13th. There are several budget requests for the University System of Georgia that may impact Georgia Southern University. If approved, the requests would:

- Provide $1,014,809 to restore funds for a retired payback project at Georgia Southern University.
- Include $11.4 million to fund merit pay and employee recruitment and retention salary adjustments. The increase would provide the basis for a salary increase pool with awards based on merit. The proposed funding represents the first salary increase since fiscal year (FY) 2009.
- Provide $60 million for Major Repair and Renovation (MRR) projects.
- Provide $9.5 million to fund the construction of a Military Science Building at Georgia Southern. Please click here for more information on this project.

Governor Deal and his staff have been extremely supportive of the University System of Georgia and our University. When you have the opportunity, please remember to thank Governor Deal and his staff for their support.

The events were a success with a great turnout from alumni in these areas. “Evening with

I am pleased to announce that for the first time in our football program’s history, two Georgia Southern Eagles have been invited to the NFL Scouting Combine. Quarterback Jerick McKinnon and cornerback Lavelle Westbrook will head to Indianapolis, Ind., for the prestigious event scheduled from Feb. 22-25. This annual event is an opportunity for individual players to prove themselves to coaches, scouts and executives from all 32 teams in advance of the NFL Draft in May. I want to commend Jerick and Lavelle for their hard work.
